Author index to Volume 13

Aaron, Henry J. Comment: "Can the Social Security trust fund contribute to savings?" 2:171

Asimakopulos, A. Joan Robinson and the Americans, 1:111–124

Basile, Liliana. Comment: Kalecki's pricing theory revisited, 2:293–297

Beed, Clive S. Philosophy of science and contemporary economics, 4:459–479

Block, Fred. Bad data drive out good: the decline of personal savings reexamined, 1:3–19

Carson, John. Comment: Kalecki's pricing theory revisited, 1:146–152

Campano, Fred. Recent trends in U. S. family income distribution: a comparison of all, white, and black families, 3:337–350

Davidson, Paul. Comment: Editor's note on our mini-symposium on Social Security taxes and national savings, 2:172–174

Editor's corner: A Post Keynesian positive contribution to "theory," 2:298–303

Deprez, Johan. Vertical integration and the problem of fixed capital, 1:47–64

Dutt, Amitava K. Interest rate policies in LDCs: a Post Keynesian view, 2:210–232

Earl, Peter E. Normal cost versus marginalist models of pricing: a behavioral perspective, 2:264–281

Ellerman, David P. Myth and metaphor in orthodox economics, 4:545–564

Folsom, Roger Nils. Portfolio adjustments and the demand for money in the face of expected inflation: an uncertainties perpective, 2:199–209

Garretsen, Harry. Some remarks on "determinate solutions and the foreclosure of process," 3:414–423

Garrison, Charles B. Cyclical variation in the capital utilization rate, 3:431–445

Golden, Lonnie. The insensitive workweek: trends and determinants of adjustment in average hours, 1:79–110

Herr, Hansjörg. Economic coherence and the transformation of planned economies into monetary economies, 3:307–327

Katzner, Donald W. The firm under conditions of ignorance and historical time, 1:125–145

Kholdy, Shady. Exchange rates and prices: evidence from Granger causality tests, 1:71–78

Langlois, Catherine C. The empirical testing pricing rules: response to symposium, 2:282–292

Laramie, Anthony J. Taxation and Kalecki's distribution factors, 4:583–594

Lee, Frederic S. Introduction to Symposium on marginalist controversy and Post Keynesian price theory, 2:233–235

Author index to Volume 13

Aaron, Henry J. Comment: "Can the Social Security trust fund contribute to savings?" 2:171

Asimakopulos, A. Joan Robinson and the Americans, 1:111–124

Basile, Liliana. Comment: Kalecki's pricing theory revisited, 2:293–297

Beed, Clive S. Philosophy of science and contemporary economics, 4:459–479

Block, Fred. Bad data drive out good: the decline of personal savings reexamined, 1:3–19

Carson, John. Comment: Kalecki's pricing theory revisited, 1:146–152

Campano, Fred. Recent trends in U. S. family income distribution: a comparison of all, white, and black families, 3:337–350

Davidson, Paul. Comment: Editor's note on our mini-symposium on Social Security taxes and national savings, 2:172–174

Editor's corner: A Post Keynesian positive contribution to "theory," 2:298–303

Deprez, Johan. Vertical integration and the problem of fixed capital, 1:47–64

Dutt, Amitava K. Interest rate policies in LDCs: a Post Keynesian view, 2:210–232

Earl, Peter E. Normal cost versus marginalist models of pricing: a behavioral perspective, 2:264–281

Ellerman, David P. Myth and metaphor in orthodox economics, 4:545–564

Folsom, Roger Nils. Portfolio adjustments and the demand for money in the face of expected inflation: an uncertainties perpective, 2:199–209

Garretsen, Harry. Some remarks on "determinate solutions and the foreclosure of process," 3:414–423

Garrison, Charles B. Cyclical variation in the capital utilization rate, 3:431–445

Golden, Lonnie. The insensitive workweek: trends and determinants of adjustment in average hours, 1:79–110

Herr, Hansjörg. Economic coherence and the transformation of planned economies into monetary economies, 3:307–327

Katzner, Donald W. The firm under conditions of ignorance and historical time, 1:125–145

Kholdy, Shady. Exchange rates and prices: evidence from Granger causality tests, 1:71–78

Langlois, Catherine C. The empirical testing pricing rules: response to symposium, 2:282–292

Laramie, Anthony J. Taxation and Kalecki's distribution factors, 4:583–594

Lee, Frederic S. Introduction to Symposium on marginalist controversy and Post Keynesian price theory, 2:233–235

Marginalist controversy and Post Keynesian price theory, 2:252–263
McCombie, John S. Response to Garrison, 3:446–454
Michl, Thomas. Debt, deficits, and the distribution of income, 3:351–365
Mini-Symposium: Social Security, taxes, and national savings, 2:155–174
Mirowski, Philip. Postmodernism and the social theory of value, 4:565–582
Mongin, Philippe. The early full-cost debate and the problem of empirically testing profit maximization, 2:236–251
Moore, Basil J. Money supply endogeneity: "reserve price setting" or "reserve quantity setting"?, 3:404–413
Palley, Thomas I. The endogenous money supply: consensus and disagreement, 3:397–403
Pasinetti, Luigi L. Vertical integration and capital theory: a comment, 1:65–70
Pollin, Robert. Two theories of money supply endogeneity: some empirical evidence, 3:366–396
Ruccio, David F. Postmodernism and economics, 4:495–510
Salvadori, Neri. See Basile, Liliana
Samuels, Warren J. Response to Garretsen, 3:424–430
"Truth" and "discourse" in the social construction of economics reality: an essay on the relation of knowledge to socioeconomic policy, 4:511–524
Sarantis, Nicholas. Distribution and terms of trade dynamics, inflation, and growth, 2:175–198
Scazzieri, Roberto. Vertical integration in economic theory, 1:20–46
Sohrabian, Ahmad. See Kholdy, Shady
Symposium: On postmodernism, economics, and canon creation, 4:459–494
Symposium: On vertical integration, 1:20–70
Symposium: The marginalist controversy and Post Keynesian price theory, 2:233–292
Szego, Andrea. The logic of a shortage economy: a critique of Kornai from a Kaleckian macroeconomic perspective, 3:328–336
Weintraub, E. Roy. Surveying Dynamics, 4:525–543
Westphal, Andreas. See Herr, Hansjörg
Wray, L. Randall. Can the Social Security trust fund contribute to savings? 2:155–170